More Veterans Return Home at Stonelaw

FOLK THERE WILL HONOR THE HEROES—OTHER DOINGS BRIEFLY REPORTED

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stobart are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl.

Haying is in full swing. Large outfits have pulled into this district and the hay is going up as fast as the bucks can slide it.

It is not safe on dark nights to go walking in the "lease." Twice last week ghosts were met by several young ladies who tried to do some sniping after sundown. They got so scared that they ran until they found shelter at a neighbor's who put the frightened children up for the night. The ghosts themselves had a few bad hours while hunting the district for the missing boys. It is no joking, right, too.

Do you notice how and "Mac" looks these days? The boxes of chocolates are still on Pancake's shelves, Mac. When are you going after them?

Patrick Thompson and Matthew Steele are back from the front. Welcome home, boys! They both are very glad to be once again in old Alberta. They think the country has changed wonderfully, especially the roads and improvements on the farms. But they find that the old friends have not changed a bit.

The car load of Fords which Mr. Pancke got in is going fast. No wonder. The crops are turning out fine, so why load around in a buggy any longer.

On September 13th a big dance, in honor of the returned soldiers of the district, will be given in Pancke's hall at Stonelaw. Those who attend are promised extra good music and an extra good time.

Bill Nash has invested some of his savings in a Ford. That's the trouble when your best girl moves away you have to use something faster than old Dobbin to keep other fellows from carrying her off altogether.

A very successful meeting of the U. F. W. A. Local of Gopher Head was held at Mrs. Teare's. The main subject of the meeting, "fruit preserving," was thoroughly discussed by the ladies and many valuable hints were exchanged. Four new members joined and three visitors were present. The next meeting the promise to be interesting. It will be held at Mrs. Wm. Weaver's, and every woman should make it a point to be present. Visitors especially are invited.

WHEAT AND GEESE PLENTIFUL

Clivale District Has a Good Crop of Each.

F. J. Dempsey, of Clivale, was in town on Tuesday of this week. Mr. Dempsey imparts that all the wheat is practically all the oats in the Clivale district are out and threshing will soon be in full swing. The yield is not as heavy as it might be, in some cases wheat will not exceed ten bushels to the acre, but on other farms the yield will be around forty and forty bushels to the acre. In fact, Mr. Dempsey, himself, expects as high as between forty and fifty bushels per acre on a portion of his land.

But the Clivale district is not capable of producing grain only, Mr. Dempsey informed the Times that wild geese in myriads swarm that neighborhood and flocks of them are seen feeding on the grain fields and bathing in the lakes.

Fred De Motte Delivers First Load 1919 Wheat

GOOD QUALITY—WHOLE CROP GOES TWENTY-TWO BUSHELS PER ACRE AND WEIGHS SIXTY-FOUR LBS. PER BUSHEL

Fred De Motte, whose farm is seven miles south-west of Delia, has the distinction of hauling the first load of new grain into Delia this fall.

The wheat was delivered to the Pioneer Grain Company's elevator, of which Dan Finnerty is manager, on Friday last. The load graded No. 1, plump kernels, of good color and weighing 64 pounds to the bushel.

The field from which the grain was taken averaged twenty-two bushels to the acre.

P. W. Hart was a business visitor to Calgary over the week-end. Mr. Hart says that according to the information he received from wholesalers in Calgary the sugar situation is getting worse, and there is very little chance of any improvement for some months.

Rowley Has Very Successful Exhibition

GOOD SHOWING OF LIVE STOCK, FIELD CROPS, POULTRY AND CRAFT WORK

(Special to The Delia Times.)

Rowley, sept. 3rd.—The first annual show of the Rowley Agricultural Society, at Rowley, was favored with beautiful weather.

There was a very satisfactory attendance and the fair was quite a success, well repaying the zeal and hard work of those responsible.

Live stock and field products were not the only things which made a good showing. The school children had some good exhibits, and the craft of the needle was well represented; the flower garden, poultry yard and dairy played their part.

A great deal of the success of this event is due to the efforts of A. C. Smith, the faithful secretary-treasurer, who left nothing neglected to make the fair a success and deserves final credit as well as pleasure in this their first agricultural fair.

To Erect New Store

It is reported that Geo. E. Kennedy is to erect a new drug store on the site he now occupies in Delia. At present Mr. Kennedy is in the east purchasing new stock, specializing on Xmas goods. The plans for the new building call for a store that will be modern in every respect and a credit in every respect.

A committee of the Great War Veterans Association has been invited to Ottawa to discuss with the government the proposal for a gratuity to all members of the overseas forces. This is a hopeful sign and indicates that the government has decided that something must be done in this direction, even if the $2,000 amount suggested by the Alberta branch of the association is not agreed to.

Herd Law Vote at Hartshorn Sept. 6

FAIR ON SEPTEMBER 9TH—CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Campbell, of Leo, lost their seven-month-old baby boy on August 29th. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Scallon of the municipal cemetery at Wolfe Hill.

The Wolfe Hill Threshing Syndicate are getting ready to commence threshing. George Sargeant is again going to run the machine for the season.

We expect to hear some interesting news about the trouble which makes it necessary for some Heart Lake folk to appear before the court at Hanna this week.

Voting on the Herd Law and Recreation Board takes place on Saturday, September 6th, at the Hartshorn post office. Get your entries in for the Bye Moor Exhibition on that day to Leo Browne, who is Dep. Returning Officer. The Exhibition will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 9th.

George Leith of the A. M. C. and James Pegmore of the 82nd arrived from overseas this week with English brides. Jim Pegmore has seen considerable service with the Canadian Forces, serving in France, Flanders and Russia. He was severely wounded and also gassed.

Hartshorn Co-Operative Creamery commenced under new management on September 1st, and shares are now on the market.

Mr. Nobbs has returned from overseas. He was Lay Reader with Rev. Scallon but is now going to reside at Hanna where he will be in charge of the English church.

Advertising Profitable

Department stores spend from 3 to 6 per cent. and mail order houses from 7 to 10 per cent of their turnover on advertising. They figure on spending so much for advertising the same as they figure on any other expense of running their business. Patent medicine companies, we are told, spend a great deal more money on advertising than their manufacturing costs amount to.

Mecheche Movements

Mr. Edward Pollock, of Leduc, visited his niece, Miss Elsie Farney, a couple of days last week.

Will Ritchie won two first prizes at the Calgary stampede.

Harve Speelman's house is rapidly nearing completion.

Miss Ivy Flaws left on Saturday last to attend St. Mary's school at Calgary.

Edmund Neff, of Calgary, spent the past week near Mecheche stooking for Edward Martin.

Mr. Benson, of Munson, has completed drilling a well for Mr. McBride and is now engaged doing a similar job for Hugh Sinclair.

Messrs. Kerr, of Delia, have put the foundation under J. O' Harrison's store, and the shelving made preparatory to its occupation as a general store by Roy Speelman.

We are glad to state that Peter Petrie is improving from his recent illness.

Church services were held in the town hall on Sunday afternoon.

We understand that a temporary site has been selected for the Merchant's Bank, and building may begin soon.

Several farmers from the eastern and southern parts of the district passed through town this week in search of work.

Billy Ritchie, of Mecheche, Wins Honors at Stampede

The bucking horse contest at the Calgary stampede, on Tuesday afternoon of last week, was won by Billy Ritchie, of Mecheche.

The contest was an excellent display, and provided the greatest amount of excitement.

Ritchie has become famous as a rough rider and had already been awarded high honors at other events of this nature. At the Calgary stampede Ritchie's horse, Maude, was considered to be one of the best horses that ever seen but he rode her admirably and received frequent applause from the interested spectators.

Stop Decrying The Farm

Confronted with the task of reorganizing Canada on a peace basis following the upheaval of the great War, and faced with the necessity of discharging that task under entirely new conditions laid with a new urgency on every citizen of the Dominion, men and women all over the Dominion are considering anew the question of what is Canada's most pressing need and how that need can be supplied.

It might be fairly and generally accepted that from a financial, economic and purely business standpoint the most pressing national need of this Dominion is that all men and women shall become imbued with the ambition to seek so they have never worked before, and by their labor to produce from the natural resources of this country the wealth which will enable Canada to meet its huge national debt and heavy national obligations, and discharge the duties and responsibilities incumbent upon her.

Opinion, however, is divided as to the policies to be inaugurated and the methods employed to bring about this development of our natural resources and consequent greater production of wealth. Commencing with this division of opinion, many phases of the big problem have become political issues in Canada, each political party advocating one policy, another party upholding an entirely different policy and course of action, and the result is those sheets of this problem which have become subjects of political controversy it is not the function nor intention of the writer of this article to deal. We leave them to governments and politicians, and to the people who, by the exercise of their franchise, make or unmake governments and politicians.

In the final analysis, however, it is the farmers of Canada who must largely solve the problem which confronts Canada today. They are the representatives of the basic industries of Canada. As a class they constitute the largest group in our population. They are the largest primary producers of wealth in this Dominion. Unless agricultural records, Canada cannot grow and prosper. These are self-evident facts. It is important, therefore, that the country should be impressed with the fact that all governments in Canada should govern themselves accordingly. In the final analysis they must sell most assiduously to the welfare and promotion of successful agriculture if they would prove to be the best government.

However, while governments can do much, it ought to be felt by no one than they have done in the past to encourage and develop the business of farming are more and more those which the people, and more particularly the farmers, must do themselves. Some of these things were referred to by Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Alberta, in a recent speech which is deserving of the widest possible publicity.

First and foremost, declared Mr. Marshall, we have got to see to it that the farmers' sons and daughters throughout the entire Dominion are the immigrants are farmers with their families. Many of these are well qualified to make good farmers, and farmers' wives that can be found anywhere in the civilized world. He arranged the government agents in their failure to spread agricultural education throughout Canada. "Never in Canada's history," he said, "was the need of agricultural education so serious. Never in public school did a teacher tell me it would be a fine thing to be a farmer. If never had a teacher say to me that it would be the finest and best ambition to settle down and endeavor to become the best cultivator of land and best live-stock breeder in the county of Bruce. I am a big shorthorn breeder in Alberta to-day, of the purest breed in Ontario. In Belgium the best draft horse breeding country in the world, I find in every school I visit books such that my horse is a good horse because his feet are sound, and this horse is strong horse because his feet are sound, and this horse is strong horse because his head is so. What I read that I understand why Belgium beats the world in horse breeding, and then I did not understand why they told me about the cat and the rat and the hat and the mat."

Mr. Marshall continued: "We have got to teach the boys and girls in the public schools that the finest thing in the world is to be a farmer. It offers the largest opportunity for a home building and the greatest opportunity for a man to spend his life. Is that of filling the soil on a good farm. We have got to get away from the idea that the farmer is getting the farmer, and there have been many farmers engaged in running down their own business more than anybody else figure that it would be equally probably a fraction of a cent a bushel.

"How does the price compare with that of the United States wheat?" Mr. Wood was asked.

"Number 1 Northern minimum price at Duluth has been fixed at $2.26 per bushel," he replied.

Mr. Wood stated that the Canada Grain Board were again meeting the second Thursday in September.

Prince Is Modest

The Prince Of Wales Likes To Be Addressed As "Sir"

Those people who dread the epoch of farmers and farmers' wives at royal visits inevitably produces will be relieved to read this from a recent biographer of the Prince of Wales, which states:

"Modesty and simplicity are strong points in the character of the prince in every way absolutely natural; and he likes others to be the same. He will not have people address him as 'Your Royal Highness,' but 'Sir.'

"Happily the Prince is blessed with a strong sense of humor, which often enables him to see the funny side of such manifestations when they occur. He does not lack a certain deference in putting the fawning in their place. There is the incident of a well-known Australian woman who, it is to say, at least no aversion to seeing her name in the papers, collecting autographs of celebrities for sale. She was one of the crowd at the investiture on the day of her holidays, and she wrote to the Prince of Wales at the end of his visit to Australia, saying that she considered his Italian journey made him the hero of the hour, and would like his signature, and the council expects to persuade it to give up its claims.

Wheat Price
May Be Higher

H. W. Wood Says Deal on to Sell Part of Crops at $2.30

Calgary.—That the Alberta farmers will realize at least the price they did last year for this season's wheat crop, was the statement made by H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, and member of the Canadian Grain Board.

"The deals made thus far at $2.15 per bushel give the farmers block to receive," he was asked.

"Yes, I believe," replied Mr. Wood. "Last year the millers paid a fixed price of $2.15, and a carrying charge of three cents, making the total figure $2.27½. The millers have not been given free hand as regards the total expenditures to July 31 amounted to $20,500,000 and this year's wheat at around $2.30. It is possible that the export demand will go somewhat higher in the future, but the amount paid for wheat the price to the millers will be fixed on the same level."

Mr. Wood said that the cost of the administration would be, Mr. Wood stated he did not know the exact figure but it would be small probably a fraction of a cent a bushel.

Spitzbergen Treaty
Almost Completed

Gives to Norway the Entire Spitzbergen Archipelago

Paris.—The Spitzbergen treaty has virtually been completed, and probably will be laid before the supreme council for approval this week. This treaty gives to Norway the entire Spitzbergen archipelago. It is celebrated chiefly for its coal mines.

Russia, Sweden, Denmark and several other nations have interests in Spitzbergen, but practically all of them have waived their claims and it is expected there will be little difficulty in getting all the great powers to ratify the treaties signing the archipelago to Norway, which is unique in Spitzbergen than any other country. Sweden appears to be the only country likely to refuse its signature, and the council expects to persuade it to give up its claims.

It is possible that the export demand will go somewhat higher in the future, but the amount paid for wheat the price to the millers will be fixed on the same level."

Mr. Marshall continued: "We have got to teach the boys and girls in the public schools that the finest thing in the world is to be a farmer. It offers the largest opportunity for a home building and the greatest opportunity for a man to spend his life. Is that of filling the soil on a good farm. We have got to get away from the idea that the farmer is getting the farmer, and there have been many farmers engaged in running down their own business more than anybody else figure that it would be equally probably a fraction of a cent a bushel.

"How does the price compare with that of the United States wheat?" Mr. Wood was asked.

"Number 1 Northern minimum price at Duluth has been fixed at $2.26 per bushel," he replied.

Mr. Wood stated that the Canada Grain Board were again meeting the second Thursday in September.

Prince Is Modest

The Prince Of Wales Likes To Be Addressed As "Sir"

Those people who dread the epoch of farmers and farmers' wives at royal visits inevitably produces will be relieved to read this from a recent biographer of the Prince of Wales, which states:

"Modesty and simplicity are strong points in the character of the prince in every way absolutely natural; and he likes others to be the same. He will not have people address him as 'Your Royal Highness,' but 'Sir.'

"Happily the Prince is blessed with a strong sense of humor, which often enables him to see the funny side of such manifestations when they occur. He does not lack a certain deference in putting the fawning in their place. There is the incident of a well-known Australian woman who, it is to say, at least no aversion to seeing her name in the papers, collecting autographs of celebrities for sale. She was one of the crowd at the investiture on the day of her holidays, and she wrote to the Prince of Wales at the end of his visit to Australia, saying that she considered his Italian journey made him the hero of the hour, and would like his signature, and the council expects to persuade it to give up its claims.

"The latter took some time on its way and happened to reach the Prince during the period of the successful French counter-offensive on the Marne. He dispatched by return a photograph of Marshal Foch!"

What Man Is Made Of

Scientifically Explained, the Ingredients That Many Possess

A writer in "The Electrical Experimenter" asks the old question: "What is man?" and attempts a "scientific" answer as follows:

"A man weighing 150 pounds will contain enough fat to make seven cakes of soap—enough sulphur to kill all fleas on a dog—enough iron to make one medium sized nail—enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop—enough phosphorus to make 2,200 matches—enough potash to kill 365 persons. This will be enough to kill all the fleas on 365 dogs—enough to build his weight. A healthy man contains 24 ounces of phosphorus, enough to make 2,200 matches, or enough poison

Cossack Forces Break Through Red Army

London.—The Cossacks, under General Baranovitch, who succeeded in breaking through the Red army, retained 15,000 Bolshevist and Ukrainian troops, according to a Reuter's despatch from Kovno. A dispatch has been received on the subject from Kovno, which refutes the Bolshevik claim that the communications were less

A Red regiment, with 40 officers, deserted to Baranovitch, who is forming a Russian army to fight the Bolsheviks. He has evacuated Tarnovo and is proceeding northward to battle Koulov, headquarters of the Bolshevik advance forces.

Gen. Denikine's advance is continuing; he is now within 12 miles of Kiev and 17 miles of Orel, the latter's fall is imminent, the enemy being in confusion. Orel, a junction centre, the entire old Bolshevik forces remaining in the north, is now within a 30-mile width to the south of Kiev which will be cut off.

To the southeast Gen. Denikine has captured the important railway junction of Bakhmatch, 20 miles northwest of Ekaterinoslav. Denikine's cavalry and armored trains are heading for Ekaterinoslav and are not meeting with any opposition along the whole western front. The Bolshevik army is now retreating on his centre and right, having captured Vinnitsa, Yalutsa and Bolshevitsevka. The plan of the Bolshevik line is to clear the left flank, preparatory to a general advance.

The Bolshevik detail of the capture of Pskov, southwest of Petrograd, is probably correct. Further to the south the line may be considered as Dvinsk and to the eastward have forced the Bolshevik back to the Dvina near Polotsk, inspecting their line. South of Dvinsk the Letts and the Poles have been checked on the line of the Niech river. Heavy fighting is going on at Novgorod but neither eastward the Bolshevik have retaken Jitomirs. The success has been secured by the capture of Pskov.

Stop Work On Warships

Step May Involve Loss of Some 25 Million Pounds

London.—All private shipbuilding and marine engineering contracts for foreign account orders are affected by the government order that all work is to be stopped, except those that are about to be finished.

The Admiralty yards at Chatham, Devonport and Pembroke may be completed, according to the Mail, if it is found cheaper to complete them than to break them up.

Shipbuilders must be liberally compensated in cases where contracts are broken, but although several million pounds sterling would be involved, it may prove more economical than carrying out the building programs.

Sir Eric Geddes, first officer of the Admiralty as saying that one sound reason for stopping work on warships at this stage will ideal the shipyards for commercial building. There is an excellent demand for new tonnage and work will probably begin on such the men liberated by the stoppage of work on naval vessels. According to the Mail, Tully Point, 40 miles from Belfast, where work on 40 warships valued at $125,000,000 has been stopped.

Warning Against Hoarding Sugar

Toronto.—With reference to an Ottawa despatch of August 23, stating that the wholesale grocers, in their convention at Ottawa, had predicted that sugar would rise to 20 cents a pound before the present shortage would be relieved, Frank Blake, secretary of the Wholesale Grocers' association of Canada, said: "There must be some mistake in that item, as no discussion took place at the convention as to what the price of sugar was likely to be. It was, however, stated to the convention that speculators in the United States had bought fifty cars of granulated sugar, held in Montreal, at the regular Canadian price, but it had been resold to other speculators in the United States and was now offered at $13.90 at Halifax to the Dominion government, and I believe a few cars were bought at this price. The convention generally felt that to buy sugar at such a figure might have the effect of creating an advance on all sugars, which would be unfortunate.

"It was also felt that selling this sugar at 15 cents per pound would not affect the retail price, even if sold again at cost, because sugar is sold today in Montreal to the wholesale trade at 14½ cents, while the retailer did not come off, and is resold to the retail trade at those figures, with the exception of a few cases where there has been created entirely through the lack of shipping facilities, owing to the congestion of freight, which has caused retailers from getting raw sugar, and is shipping facilities can be restored there will be no possibility without further delay, we should get supplies of refined sugar to meet our requirements within the next 30 or 60 days.

"I would like to warn the public against buying sugar beyond their pressing requirements, as hoarding at present is certainly going to increase the price to the consumers, who will be in want, besides depriving the rest of the public from getting their fair share of what sugar is to be had. Every wholesale and retail grocer should furnish their customers with the smallest quantity of sugar they can get along with until sugar becomes more plentiful."

California Transportation Is Paralyzed

Workers Disregard Orders of Their Union Leaders and Quit Work

San Francisco, Cal.—Although both government and railroad board officials were straining to enforce the award, a strike of railroad employees and allied crafts has paralyzed steam rail transportation in California and several California interurban lines.

The formation surrounding the discovery is a quartz schist located in a small basin of Copper Lake and the indications for gold and mining men has taken place and the town is supplied of every available sum.

Mythical Millions

Each Generation Deluded By Stories of Hidden Treasures

The governor of the Bank of England, Sir Helen Cokayne, has undertaken to dispel "authoritatively" a delusion regarding that institution, a delusion which he describes as involving many in other lands as well as in England in "terrible tragedies." He denied before the House of Commons that the Bank of England had any large amount of unclaimed balances, or "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street," as they call the Bank of England, and he put an end to shortening stories of mythical millions and hidden treasures of gold and diamonds. But the governor of the Bank could not put an end to the search for mythical fortunes, he is mistaken. With every generation there will be some person to hunt for Captain Kidd's gold, shipwreck treasure in the South Seas and money in bed that was left by an ancestor. So long as people will continue to be deluded, so long will those persons who "know better" decide on "unprincipled" profit by removing such delusions.

At the beginning of the Boer war in 1899 he was Vrijheid Corner for that district, joining the Boer forces in Northern Natal, becoming commandant general. Following the peace negotiations between the Boers and the British, Botha was appointed premier during the period of reconstruction. After the grant of self-government to the Transvaal in 1906, General Botha was called upon to form a government. At the outbreak of the great war in 1914 General Botha took command of the forces in German Southwest Africa, achieving a complete success and compelling the German troops to surrender after a short campaign.

With General Jan Christian Smuts, General Botha signed the peace treaty with Germany for the Union of South Africa, June 28 last. He arrived at Capetown from Europe on July 28.

Cannot Rely On States

Sir Auckland Geddes Says Europe Must Work Independently

London.—Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction, speaking at Basingstoke at a garden-party given in honor of the special financial commission of which Premier David George is chairman, has been charged that the impression that the Premier was throwing himself with great energy into the work of the commission was entirely wrong.

Sir Auckland said that it was useless to rely on the United States to help us out of our financial difficulties. The United States had its own trade difficulties. She had increased the productive power of her population and was not only a great exporter of manufactures but the greatest exporter of raw materials. She was in the unhappy position of possessing so much that there was little she wanted, and, as a result, the balance of trade was against London viewed in her favor and, therefore, against her power to export goods in exchange. The United States raw material, he said, it was increasingly difficult for the United States to get her manufactures across the Atlantic. The only result of United States flooding with goods would be such a movement of exchange in her favor, making the price of United States goods in exchange for goods in Europe must, therefore, work out nowhere selection, he declared.

He said officials were well pleased with the success so far attained and that prices were expected to break when congress enacts amendments to the food control law by which criminal penalties can be imposed on profiteers and hoarders.

"We hope the public will begin to reap the benefit of our efforts before long," Mr. Palmer said. "For instance, we are making progress in obtaining guarantees from meat manufacturers as to having a limit beyond which prices shall not go."

Who Won the War?

A rather silly and somewhat mischievous discussion has been going on in the press of the United States and Eastern Canada on the question, "Who won the war?". The answer is so obvious that we wonder at intelligent people and representative newspapers wasting time and space over it. The allies not singly but collectively, won the war. Each contributed something to the common victory, and all recognize that the co-operation of the allied nations one with the other was made possible by the British navy, which throughout the war maintained its supremacy of the seas and kept open to the allies the ocean highways of the world.

Reference is here made to the subject because our attention has been called to a short letter appearing in the New York Herald of August of 15, and written by John Simpson, of 1850 Rose St., Regina, which is especially well framed and concise, and provides a most conclusive answer to the question which seems to be troubling some good people. Mr. Simpson says:

"I have just read a short extract from the New York Herald on the subject: 'Who won the war?' The truth concerning this matter can be made perfectly clear to even the smallest school children by using a pair of scales.

"The teacher may place a considerable weight on one of the pans of the scale, and then put one-pound weights one after another into the other pan. The first one pound weight will not move it, nor, perhaps, the second, third, or fourth. The fifth will raise it.

"Now, even small children can see that the fifth weight does not do it all. If the four weights first put in were taken out the fifth would have no effect whatever.

"The United States was the fifth weight and produced the required weight, but it could not have done so alone. Neither could the other nations have produced this effect without it."—Regina Leader

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEET IN REGULAR CONFAB

Scholarship, Better Temperance Laws and Better Home Cooking Freely Discussed

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening of last week in the church, over two dozen members being present.

The question of establishing a scholarship to send some local girl student to the Old's Agricultural College was discussed. The cost of tuition is free but the board cost is $200.00 for the five months.

Mrs. Orsang was a speaker in favor of the scholarship but as the time was short for financing the matter she proposed that the affair be laid over. This was seconded and then a discussion of plans for raising Institute funds followed.

A cafeteria supper, involving less work, was proposed by one member. A series of concerts was suggested by another member. Mrs. Newcombe proposed that national lunches be served at various banns and she thought this would meet the needs of the case and that a play be given as an additional part of the scheme. A committee, consisting of Mesdames Newcombe, MacKay, Rose, Campbell, Minett and Orsang, was entrusted with the arrangements.

There followed a discussion of the traffic in liquor as affecting home welfare, and it was the unanimous opinion of the members that the legal method of trafficking in strong drink needed revision. Those present agreed that the boldness of the illicit sale was highly discreditable to the authorities.

Mrs. Dunlop demonstrated the packing of a vegetable salad and the members very much enjoyed the service of the dish.

Mrs. Richardson introduced a fruit salad which proved very delicious.

A paper, on cheerfulness in the home, was read by Mrs. Rose. This showed careful thought and preparation.

The hostesses of the day were Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Rodie.

VEGETABLE SALAD

Two cups of celery, 1 cup of cucumbers, 1 cup of cooked carrots, each chopped fine, and 1 tablespoonful of parsley tossed up together. Dissolve one package of lemon gelatine in two cups of hot water, add a pinch of salt, 2 table spoons of vinegar. Let cool before pouring over vegetables. Then place all together in a mould and let stand until firm. Turn out and garnish with lettuce leaves and salad dressing.

SALAD DRESSING

Mix together 1 table spoon of salt, 1 of mustard, 4 of sugar, 2 of flour, 3 of melted butter, a pinch of cayenne pepper, add yolks of 4 eggs slightly beaten, 1½ cups of milk, ½ cup of vinegar added slowly. Cook together in double boiler stirring constantly until thick.

This dressing will keep for weeks.

FRUIT SALAD

Six oranges, 2 bananas, 4 peaches, 1 small bunch of grapes, juice of 1 lemon, ½ cup sugar, serve with whipped cream.

A Mountain Lion Reported Seen Near Long Lake

RESIDENT SUFFERS THEFT OF CAR PARTS BUT GAINS BY GREATER SPEED

A few days ago William Baird claimed that he saw a mountain lion on the road allowance just west of the post office. But when the police arrived at Mr. Baird's farm the latter said that he had only seen Marty's little lamb.

Some lady broke into C. L. Bebb's garage last Wednesday and stole parts of his Ford car. But Charlie's car is running better than ever since parts of the engine have been confiscated.

Mrs. Farrell and family will move to Calgary for the winter. They expect to leave about September 8th.

Ben McBride motored to Hanna last Thursday and had an enjoyable time. George Sargent, of Hartsburn, also made the same trip.

L. S. Giles is wearing a big smile these day. You can guess the cause.

Mrs. Winkles and Mrs. W. B. Davies were visitors to Hanna last week.

We think that William Baird will be ordering a flying machine soon as he says he does not like the roads south around the end of the lake.

Bricks Without Straw
Or Business Without Advertising

WHEN Pharaoh of old thought to put "one over" the Israelites and to do it "good and hard" he set them to work to make bricks without straw. Perhaps some did not know that it was any harder without the straw but history tells us that some DID know. There are still men who think that they can "make bricks without straw" who believe they can conduct a business without the straw of advertising. But most successful businessmen think and act differently, and judging from the liberal patronage enjoyed by The Times, the business people of Delia are realizing the value of persistent advertising. ○ ○ ○ ○ ○ ○

Biggest Egg Importer

Last Year the British Market Was Short Nearly 100,000 Long Tons of Eggs

A glance at the European markets of pre-war days will help us to appreciate the problems that lie before us in that line. Britain was the heaviest European importer of eggs, while Germany, a close second in eggs, was the largest importer of poultry. Over 30 per cent. of Britain's egg imports came from Russia, the balance from over fifty other countries.

Many changes in trade movement have occurred during the war. The Canadian west has ceased to import eastern eggs, and is now a producer. For a dozen years Canada's export of eggs to Britain had been a negligible while she catered to the home market, but in 1913 the first carload of western eggs was sent, and in later years, later, in 1918, over two hundred carloads of eggs came from the west. Needless to say the export trade and this year's indications are for a large increase over the amount shipped in 1918, as stated in an article on egg and poultry market conditions in Europe, by W. A. Brown, chief of the Poultry Division, Department of Agriculture, in the Agricultural Gazette.

Britain is still the biggest egg importer. Her present need is Canada's opportunity, and her need is great, in spite of the fact that Canada's egg production has increased up her exports to the United Kingdom during the war amounted to only 1/5 of the British import requirements. Last year Britain was short nearly 170,000 long tons of shell eggs.

The withdrawal of Russia as an egg exporting country leaves the Dominion in the favored position to supply the British trade. With an improved system of grading and standardization Canada has established a guarantee for eggs bearing the name of "Canada" or "Canadian." Canadian eggs are in high repute on the British market.

Aside from the egg market, Europe offers opportunities in the producer of dressed poultry. At the beginning of the present year the outlook for export trade in dressed poultry was dark indeed. Poultry had practically had paid high prices for the product, but space could not be secured for its shipment. All space was under the control of the British Ministry of Shipping and was reserved for the shipment of cereals, and the only situation was tense. The high prices offered in January were lower in February and March. Shippers were wailing with their produce for the earliest opportunity of shipping. Through representations from the Department of Agriculture, and the High Commissioner's office in London, space was gradually released and we have shipped nearly 1,000,000 pounds of dressed poultry to the British market. The outlook is bright, are now making shipments as well.

Montreal Race Riot

Montreal, Que.—A race riot, in which whites and negroes battled in the streets, flying freely, was spelled when police reserves made to the negro quarter.

The trouble started, it is claimed, when three negroes attacked a white watchman in a hotel. One of the trio was shot in the head while attempting to escape in an automobile, and was taken to a hospital under arrest.

Cattle Trade Very Active

There has been a considerable increase in the number of the horses exported from the Dominion, as shown in the report of the trade of Canada for the fiscal year ending June, 1917, 1918 and 1919, issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In 1917, the value of living animals exported from this country was $13,347,239 in 1918 it was 19,631,068, and for the twelve months ending June, 1919, it was $37,840,000.

Can The Hapsburgs Come Back?

Austrian Empire Is Now But Small, Weak State

Many Germans put back under Hapsburg rule and democracy feel small sense in Austria. What is left of the Austrian empire makes but a small, weak state, with little ability to stand alone that there is a natural desire for annexation to Germany, which is forbidden by the treaty. It is probable that the Hapsburgs are seriously enquiring for some grant that will provide them with sufficient funds to live in comfort. Their wealth has yet been found that will give good crops for a lengthy period of years, and for this reason it is advisable to consider establishing some aid to the ex-ruling house and to include the Hapsburgs in the pension some grass for hay, and if necessary, for pasture. A special farm rate note is issued as follows:

Only of all the grasses tested on the Scott experimental station, western rye grass has proven to become a hardy perennial when cut for hay and must easily eradicated. From the standpoint of yield it is at the top of the list, averaging over two tons per acre for the past three years. On the fields the yields were lighter and have been some seasons here as low as half a ton per acre and up to one and three-quarters. Nevertheless it has been found that western rye grass grown for hay in the crop rotation has shown some profit, and in addition to seeding to sweet clover grass and has cost less per acre than is the ordinary summerfallow. This is due largely to the sod land. It is also worth while observing that wheat grown after summerfallowing the sod land has given greater profits than wheat where western rye grass grown on the ordinary summerfallow.

In seeding down it has been found that an increased yield can be secured in the first crop by sowing alone, but that a mixture is desirable in the amount of moisture and not on the treatment in seeding down. Sweet clover-timothy land has given heavier yields than when sown after a grain crop, but this difference is not nearly as great as would be expected. Where barnyard manure has been turned under and grass grown for several years the yield has been quite equal to where the grass has been sown on fallow land.

Reports from the various experiments with this grass, light seeding using from 10 to 12 pounds of seed per acre is the most profitable. Mixing other grasses with western rye grass has up to the present decreased rather than increased the yields.

Hickory Supply Exhausted

Hickory in Ontario's most valuable structural hardwood, and the supply is now commercially exhausted in the province. The wood is used by makers of vehicles and implements and tool handles. The wood is a very valuable one on account of its toughness and elasticity, in which it excells all other native hardwoods. The value of the timbers now being used by the manufacturers was reported as having been purchased in the forest at a billion dollars on the subject of wood-using industries of Ontario, issued by the Forestry Branch, Interior Department.

Western Rye Grass Makes Good Hay

Grasses Tested at Scott Station Yielded Average of Two Tons Per Acre

One of the biggest problems confronting the farmers on the prairie plains in the dry farming sections is that of providing hay for their work horses and other livestock. In many districts the greater part of the wild land has been either broken up or fenced and farmers generally are anxiously enquiring for some grass that will provide them with sufficient hay for their requirements. The problem has yet been found that will give good crops for a lengthy period of years, and for this reason it is advisable to consider establishing some aid to the ex-ruling house and to include the Hapsburgs in the pension some grass for hay, and if necessary, for pasture. A special farm rate note is issued as follows:

Japs Were Aggressors

Battle at Chang-Chun Has Been Inquired Into

Pekin.—The official report to the Chinese government regarding the fighting between Chinese and Chinese soldiers on July 19 at Chang-Chun, Manchuria, it was said in government circles today, was the report that has provoked the trouble. There is no definite proof at who fired the first shot, but it was declared that the fact that Japanese soldiers with fixed bayonets and loaded rifles forced an entrance into the military encampment shows that they were the aggressors.

Unofficial Chinese reports say 18 Japanese were killed and 17 wounded, and 12 Chinese were killed and 14 wounded. It was added that 100 Chinese soldiers are missing, but it is believed that many of them fled and have feared to return.

The Japanese minister at Washington announced that the Chinese government, as a result of the incident, has dismissed the chief of police, three leaders of the Chinese soldiers and had reprimanded the governor-general of the province. The statement said that the clash was provoked by the Japanese soldiers, who, it is said, became drunk. Nineteen Japanese were killed and 14 seriously wounded.

Heavy July Trade

Figures for Last Month Show an Increase Over Last Year

Ottawa.—For the first four months of the fiscal year ending July, the value of trade with the United Kingdom was to the value of $657,787,357. This represents a falling away in trade of approximately $100,000 million dollars, as compared with the same period last year, when the value of goods imported and exported until July 31 was $702,722,565.

An encouraging feature of the trade statement just issued by the Department of Customs is, besides that a heavy increase for the month of July alone, when goods to the value of $100,000 million dollars, as stated in a bulletin on the subject of wood-using industries of Ontario, issued by the Forestry Branch, Interior Department.

Answering a fool according to his folly but adds to the foolishness of the world.

Carnegie's Huge Fortune

Totals Several Times Fifty Millions, Is Announcements from an Authoritative Source

New York.—Although Andrew Carnegie died unmarried and philanthropist declared during his lifetime that he expected to give away his huge fortune and "die a pauper," his estate to be disposed of by will, which will be filed for probate next week, was "several times $50,000,000," it learned from an authoritative source here.

Publication of a story to the effect that Carnegie had given away all of his estate with the exception of $50,000,000 brought the statement that the estate was much more.

It was also stated that a will of approximately 4,000 words, drawn by Mr. Carnegie himself, and which was generally believed to be his last will, had been superseded by a shorter document of 2,000 words drawn by Elihu Root.

The decision of Mr. Carnegie to defer the bulk of his estate to charity, he had expended much time and thought and which bequeathed a large part of her estate to his daughter Margaret, was said to have resulted from her marriage to Ensign Roswell Miller several months ago.

Mr. Carnegie settled a large "dot" on his daughter at the time of her wedding and for this reason is said to have found it necessary to change the provisions of the will.

Mr. Root, from Company, of New Jersey, which was incorporated by Mr. Carnegie in 1901 for the purpose of administering a fund set aside by him for scientific research, to whom individual welfare he had contributed, will act as executor of the will.

Reventlow Prefers Japan

Urges Germany to Extend Friendship to Ask

Count Reventlow, editor of the Berlin Tages Zeitung, takes issue with, Count von Bernstorff, formerly ambassador to America, over the suggestion of von Bernstorff that Germany should cultivate a profitable friendship of friendly relations with America. Instead, the editor favors Japan.

Warning his readers against a single trend of the German foreign policy, Count Reventlow says:

"The eyes of Germany must also be turned in the direction of the European east, and we must not forget that Japan was the power among our foes which during the progress of the war did not manifest intense hatred and will for annihilation, although she was driven to support Russia in the conflict, and was unwilling. Which treated our prisoners with far better than other powers, and which alone among all our foes demonstrated herself a nation of culture."

Grain Heating for Lambs

"Too many sheep breeders and feeders make the mistake of allowing their lambs too much grain in the winter time when they are being developed," says J. D. A. Green, of Douglas County, Ill. "Many show records are spoiled because they are overfed during the summer. Oats, peas, rape and vetch in pastures will supply all the feed necessary to develop a lamb or yearling. Grain feed is too heating, and a grain ration when pasture is available is damage from summer heat."

Want France To Release Huns

Socialists Use Women's Influence for Liberating Prisoners

Berlin.—A meeting of Majority Socialists was held, protesting against the further retention of German prisoners in France. It was the first move by the Socialists in the plan to bring women forward as an influence for the return of prisoners. It is being felt that they can arouse more sympathy than men.

Daniel Stauder, member of the national assembly and imperial commissioner for war and civilian prisoners, blamed France for the holding of these prisoners and said that the condition of the men was bad. He said the men were treated well in Italy, but that in Japan they were miserable owing to different customs and methods of housing the prisoners there.

Many say the government appreciates there would be a tremendous effect had gathered together that the prisoners be suddenly returned to Germany, and it is said that it would be better for them to remain where there is food, in spite of the mental anguish of themselves and their relatives. Almost all are fearful, and entertained that probably a large number of those returning will be either Bolshevists in their views or will be easily converted to communistic principles.

Openly, the government declares that no sacrifice will be shunned, welcome and feed the men, but many believe there is a secret understanding resulting in their retention in France.

Placing Blame On Leadership

Commission Strongly Criticized Attacks Made at Anzac and Suvla

London.—The Times forecasts that the Dardanelles commission's forthcoming report will find that insufficient consideration was given to evasive project before the end of the year 1914, and that landing in 1914. The difficulties at the time were greatly underestimated by the commission, strongly criticized the attacks made at Anzac and Suvla. The failure is largely ascribed to lack of leadership, censuring several commanders, particularly at Suvla. The report unanimously agrees with the decision to evacuate, but states that decision was unduly delayed and expresses the opinion that Monro's view, confirmed by Kitchener, ought to have been decisive. The commission adversely criticizes the breakdown of the water supply and the lack of preparation for the evacuation of the wounded.

Want to Make a Day of It

Vancouver.—An effort is being made by civic authorities to have the proposed visit of the fleet of the United States Pacific fleet correspond with the presence in this city of the Prince of Wales, on September 22.

Will Probe Shoe Prices

Washington.—A resolution directing the federal trade commission to investigate the high cost of shoes and determine the cause for increased prices was adopted by the house, and referred to extend the enquiry to clothing and food.

Few people will take advice unless charged for it.

Control Of Liquor In Great Britain

Protest Against the Removal of Restrictions on Manufacture and Sale of Liquor

London, England.—A mass meeting to protest against the removal of restrictions on the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor until a permanent measure of reform has been enacted by parliament took place in the Central Hall, Westminster, under the auspices of the Temperance Council of the Christian Churches of England and Wales, which represents 14 denominations, among whom are the Archbishop of Canterbury, who was unable to be present. Cardinal Bourne moved a resolution to the effect that in view of the great advantages of the efficiency and moral well-being of the nation and public health which had followed the restrictions placed on the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors during the war, the meeting strongly protests against the government to maintain these restrictions until permanent measures of reform had been enacted in parliament.

Sir Donald Maclean, seconding, said that the question was of supreme bearing on the immediate future. The future of the trades of this world, he said, would be claimed by the most sober nation. The question was not of business and of national efficiency.

Sir Thomas Barlow, supporting the resolution, said the object of the control board was to promote efficiency. It was easy to say the war was coming ended, justification for restrictive measures no longer existed, but he would point out that the physique of the British nation after its tremendous losses might prove quite as much a matter of concern as before during the war. The issue of breed versus beer might possibly arise again.

Miss Margaret MacMillan said she believed that up to the present they had never asked any government to ask had pluck enough to face the whole drink question. Mr. Lloyd George was the first of the public opinion behind him and would settle the question in a few weeks.

Other speakers supported the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

Export Of Canadian Cattle

Action May Be Taken to Remove the Embargo By Great Britain

Ottawa.—Hon. Dr. Roberts, minister, who was one of the members of the Canadian mission to London regarding the embargo placed on Canadian cattle, returned to Canada. In the course of a statement given out Dr. Roberts said that he had learned while abroad, he said that he had given very considerable attention, together with other members of mission, of the removal of the restrictions on the importation of Canadian live-stock into the United Kingdom, which is generally known as the cattle embargo. This important question, he said, was under very representative agricultural bodies in England and Scotland, some of which were strongly in favor of the removal of the restrictions. Dr. Roberts, son, while he could not state anything definite on the subject, said he was hopeful that some time during the present year action would be taken by the British Government in the direction of the removal of the embargo.

A Chinaman's Small Change

Wealthy Importer Tendered Certified Checks for $800,000

Chen Ah Pen, wealthy Chinese importer and exporter of Panama and Hong Kong, was short of small change when he presented his credentials for the transportation of himself, wife and three children, who had been booked to leave for Hong Kong on the liner China, says a San Francisco paper.

He tendered a certified check for $800,000. When General Passenger Agent H. N. Thomas asked if that was the only sort of change he had, Chen exhibited another check for $800,000 for an even $500,000.

Thomas never smiled as he asked if the merchant carried gold in change. Chen said this would only him, but when four men started to pull a big truck from the Bank of China, he decided that a certificate of deposit would be better. He has made a fortune in Panama, but intends to return to Hong Kong to establish a new agency.

A jury recently met to inquire into a case of suicide. After sitting throughout the evidence the twelve men retired, and after deliberating returned the following verdict:

"The jury are all of one mind — temporarily insane."

Ravages Of Tuberculosis

Ten Thousand Deaths Each Year in Canada Due to This Disease

Tuberculosis, commonly known as the great white plague is the most widespread of all the major infectious diseases. In Canada at least ten thousand deaths each year are due to tuberculosis. Figures from cities show that for every death from tuberculosis there are not less than ten cases of this disease which would mean 100,000 cases of this dread disease in Canada. In Saskatchewan at present we have had registered deaths occur each year from tuberculosis, and applying the proportion of ten cases to the produce to each death reported, we have four thousand cases of the disease in our own province. These statistics are conservative and convey some idea of the ramifications of the great white plague. One of the most important views of the disease is that the toll falls heaviest on those in the prime of life. Statistics show that 30 per cent. of all deaths between 15 and 60 years of age are due to pulmonary tuberculosis alone. Post-mortem examinations show at least 75 per cent. of those examined have evidence of tuberculosis, at least at some period of life. This means that few escape tubercular infection at some period in their lives even if they have had no indications or symptoms of the disease. The reason for this is that the tubercular bacillus has been such as to ward off the disease and prevent it making any progress, and as these bacilli are scars remain to show that tubercular infection has occurred present. Nature could furnish no more striking evidence than this of the vital importance of keeping physically fit and thus maintaining bodily resistance at the highest possible point.

Tuberculosis is caused by a small germ which is too minute to be seen with the naked eye. The germ is so minute that it can only be seen under the microscope when magnified 700 times. The bacilli found in the germs of tuberculosis are contained in the discharges of the body—more especially in the sputum and nasal discharges from the lungs. What is known as droplet infection is also a chief cause of tuberculosis. Under this we mean that a small particle of sputum loaded with tuberculosis bacilli is coughed directly from a sick person to a well person by coughing, sneezing, spitting or kissing. Tuberculosis may also be contracted by drinking milk from cows which are affected with tuberculosis of the udder. This form of tuberculosis is known as bovine tuberculosis and affects children principally. Both human and bovine varieties of tuberculosis germs produce each other closely—the main difference being that the human type is very virulent for man, but has little influence for cattle, rabbits and other animals. On the other hand, the bovine type is very virulent for cattle, but only moderately so for man. The bovine type of tuberculosis does affect man, however, as well as although as the human type. It is now estimated that possibly seven per cent. of the tuberculosis in man is of the bovine type. Fully 25 per cent. of all cases of tuberculosis in children under five years of age are due to bovine type.

This is the first of a series of articles which will be published in this paper in the interest of the provincewide campaign being conducted by the Daughters of the Empire to raise funds for the erection of the provincial tuberculosis pavilion at the Saskatchewan Provincial Sanatorium at Fort QuAppelle.

This pavilion, which is now under construction, is to be used for the treatment of children threatened with or suffering from tuberculosis.

The Daughters of the Empire realize and are confident they will obtain the hearty co-operation and support of the people of Saskatchewan in their splendid endeavor on behalf of the children of the province. Protective Treaty for Fish Signed

Washington.—A treaty providing for the protection of fish in the contiguous boundary waters of Canada and the United States on the Pacific has been signed at the state department by Secretary Lansing for the United States, and Minister Reginald Hindley, charge of the British embassy for Great Britain. The convention embodies recommendations of the American fish commission and British Columbia experts.

Traffic on Canals

The total traffic through the several canals of the Dominion for the season of 1917 amounted to 22,288,925 tons, a decrease of 1,344,556 tons compared with the previous year 244,819 passengers were carried, a decrease of 18,809, according to the report of the Department of Railways and Canals.

Spain Buys War Material

New Giant C.P.R. Locomotive

Two of the largest locomotives ever built in the Canadian railways have been under construction for some time at the C.P.R. Angus shops in Montreal, and one of these No. 5202, was inspected the other day by President E. W. Beatty, and Vice-president Grant Hall. These locomotives are of the heavy Mikado type and are intended for freight service, being designed and built for the heavy grades on the line.

The weight of the engine and tender in working condition is 500,000 lbs., the engine alone weighing 325,000 lbs. The diameter of the driving wheels is 63 inches. The cylinders are 25½ inches in diameter by 32-inch stroke, which with 200-lbs. boiler pressure makes these locomotives capable of exerting a maximum tractive effort of 56,000 lbs. The diameter of the boiler is 80 inches at the front end and 90 inches at the back end. The fire box is 84 inches wide and 120 inches long, and the grates are moved by steam grate shakers.

The cab is of the vestibule type, which is the C.P.R. standard, and every effort has been made to make the accommodations for the engine men as comfortable as possible. One side of the cab is fitted with a clothes locker 14 inches by 20 inches wide, in which clothes can be hung and lunch coils carried.

The tender has a capacity for 12 tons of coal and 8,000 imperial gallons of water.

THE COW PUNCHER

Dave's duties were simple enough. He had to drive a wagon to a coal yard, where a very superior young man, with a collar, would express surprise that he had been so long, and tell him to back in under chute number so-and-so. It appeared to be always a matter of great distress to this young man that Dave did not know which chute to back under until he was told. Having backed into position, a door was opened. Then was a fiction that the coal in the bin should have gone into the wagon, but, as Dave at once discovered, this was merely a fiction. Aside from a few accumulating lumps near the door, the coal had to be shovelled. When the box was judged to be full the wagon was driven over to the scales. If the load were too heavy some of it had to be thrown off, while the young man with the collar passed comfortable remarks to the occasion. If the load were too light less distress was experienced. Then Dave had only to drive to address 25 or 30 other houses, where the coal down a chute located in the most inaccessible position for granular discharge and return to the coal yard, where the young man with the collar would facetiously inquire whether Dave Blank had invited him in to afternoon tea, or if he had been waiting for a change in the weather.

Conditions in the boarding-house had the value of distracting Dave's attention from the unpleasantness of his work. Mrs. Metford, handicapped by her numerous offspring, embittered by her constant struggle to her contributions to the state, and disheartened by drudgery and overwork, had, long ago ceased to take any store on personal appearance or even cleanliness. As Dave watched her slovenly shuffle to and from the kitchen, decked and perused by the young Metfords in all degrees of childish innocence, his mind flew back to the recollections of his own mother and the quiet, noiseless order of their home. Even in the latter days, when she and his father had been anything but model housekeepers, they had never known such squalor as this.

Metford's attitude toward his wife fluctuated from course humor to brutality. There was days when the woman no spark of spirit to resist. With neither tongue nor eye did she make any response, and only her flings back and forth were neither hastened nor delayed by the pleasure of her food. Her bearing was that of one who has suffered until the senses are numb, who has drunk the last dregs of bitterness, for whom no possible change of condition can be worse. Her indifference was tragic.

The sleeping accommodations had the same air of stupidity. The boarding-house was housed in a lean-to which supported one wall of the kitchen, and the night lodgers made upstairs over the main part of the house. The room was not large, but it had four corners, and to each corner stood a cheap iron bed with baggy springs and musty mattress. The dirty stone floor was bare save in part, sloped at the walls almost to the edges of the beds. One table and a wash bowl and mirror for the use of the lodgers; those who were impatient for their turn might omit their ablutions altogether or perform them in the back-yard at the hose.

All Metford's employees, with the exception of Dave, were foreigners, more or less recent arrivals, and had little English language. Somewhat to his surprise, they manifested an attitude of superiority toward him, carrying on their conversations in a strange tongue, and allowing him little part in their common life. Dave's spirit, which had always been accustomed to receive and be received on a basis of absolute equality, rebelled violently against the intangible wall of exclusion which his fellow workers built about themselves, and as they had shown no desire for his company he retaliated by showing still less for theirs, with the result that he found himself very much alone and apart from the life of his new surroundings.

His work and supper were over by seven o'clock each evening, and now was the opportunity for him to begin the schooling for which he had set his heart. He could not afford dissipation to make the sedentary hours; he was tired in the evening, and his mind was not in the best condition to study. But he was free to stroll down town, smoke cigarettes on the street corners, or occasionally, on special nights, go to a pool. In this way the weeks went by, and when his month with Metford was up he had neither gained nor lost other position, so he continued where he was. He was being gradually and unconsciously submerged in an inertia which, however much it might hate its present surroundings, had not the spirit to seek a more favorable environment.

So the fall and winter drifted along; Dave had made few acquaintances and no friends, if we except Conward, whom he frequently met in the pool rooms, and for whom he had developed a sort of attachment. His first underlying sense of distrust had been lulled by closer acquaintanceship. Conward's mild manner and quiet, subdued speech had inspired confidence, and it became a customary thing for the two to play four-small stakes, Dave losing more often than he won.

One Saturday evening as Dave was on the way to their accustomed meeting-place he felt a touch on the street. "Hello, old man," said Conward, cheerily, "I was just looking for you. I've got two tickets for the show tonight. Some swell dances in the chorus. Come along. There'll be fun."

There were two theatres in the town, one of which, though it had a pretension to class vaudeville, was more of a resort for the lower order. It was to this that Conward led the way, and with a familiarity which showed that he was well known to the management, he secured a small table in front of the stage, with singing and tripping chorus girls unpleasantly close to

Von Beulow On The War

Tells What He Knows About Who Started the Trouble

Berlin—Franz Bernhard von Beulow, formerly Chancellor of Germany in a rather belated manner entered the list of those making reservations concerning the outbreak of war by writing a letter to the Frankfurter Zeitung resenting the statement made to Dr. Theobald von Bethmann Hollweg, in July, 1914, that the declaration of war was inevitable. Prince von Beulow sketched his long career as Chancellor, telling how he was unable to avoid war and admits that peace was desired by Dr. Bethmann Hollweg, who, he says, has been "lacked political art."

"During the grave weeks before the war," writes Prince von Beulow, "serious diplomatic and political mistakes were made by Germany's political leaders which were unjustly ascribed to the people's responsibility."

Agreements Reached With The U.S.A.

Britain's Bill for Carrying Troops to Be Paid

Washington.—For each man transported overseas in British ships the United States government will pay $265.75, Britain has agreed to, it was announced yesterday by Secretary General Hines, director of transportation of the War Department, and Lord Reading, representing the British government.

Secretary Baker, it was learned, has approved the agreement which frees a price a little more than half that tentatively put forward by the British at the beginning of the negotiations. The total cost of the British tonnage used in transportation of troops is estimated at $93,727,250, the number of men carried having been 1,467,200. Similar negotiations are now on with the French and other governments.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You simply step by the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of freezone," and a tiny bottle with little but is sufficient to remove every hard soft corn from your foot.

A few drops of this new ether compound, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, shrivels up and can be lifted out with the fingers.

A quarter of an ounce of freezone costs but a few cents and is sufficient to remove every corn on the foot, hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, without soreness or irritation.

Freezone is the discovery of a Cincinnati genius, who is known to millions of people.

Britain To Resume Export Trade Soon

Daily Mail Writer Does Not Agree With Claim Conditions in France Are Good

London—A careful survey of the trade situation does not confirm the view prevalent that the trend of events is all in favor of United States export trade, according to the writer of a special article to which the Daily Mail has given much prominence, and concerning which it is emphatically that the great rush of imports into Great Britain seems to be ceasing and that normalcy within a considerable scale is about to begin.

The writer of the special article says the British Government closed on Sept. 1 for the withdrawal of import restrictions, to accord with the American policy of opening as soon as expedited stream of shipping which has been leading foodstuffs in Australasia and America, however, have arrived and the ocean route is thronged with others, so that henceforth supplies will not be dependent on trans-Atlantic sources for food. The gathering of the home harvest, he adds, aids the situation.

As regards British export prospects, the writer asserts it is well known in commercial circles that enormous stocks of textiles, jewellery and other goods are available for export.

"America has been pouring goods into Europe," says the writer, "but the rate of exchange is now against Europeans and as those who have large commitments are pleased at the outlook for their trade and are not hampered by the removal of war British restrictions. Many alert American business men have advised manufacturers to cease flooding the British market."

Ottawa.—The number of mines in District 18, embracing the district in the vicinity of Fernie, B.C., and Edmonton, Alta., which have resumed work, is gradually increasing, the latest report received by the Minister of Labor is to the effect that 31 of the leading coal companies, or 60 per cent. of the total output, are in operation.

At the same time officials of the United Mine Workers' Association are experiencing considerable opposition from Ottawa and the Labor Union idea. According to reports, however, the opposition seems to be decreasing.

Hon. G. D. Robertson has returned from a personal investigation of the difficulties.

Chemists Work On Cheaper Food

Substitutes Are Being Found for Articles Which Are Now Out of Average Man's Reach

New York.—New means of obtaining foodstuffs, and satisfactory methods of converting familiar substances into palatable and cheaper diet, are recently been discovered, according to a bulletin issued by the American Chemical Society at its meeting for the summer, from which, state police authorities, only one man comes out alive after a wreck. The driver of the boat he was piloting was wrecked in the ice floes off Herschell Island. On the particular occasion inspector Phillips, accompanied by Sergeant Deak and Constable Cornelius, were returning from a patrol. The party became rough and the ice floes pounded their boat, sending it to the bottom. The officers quickly jumped to the ice and then began an eight mile trip, during which they suffered untold hardships, finally reaching the depot in an exhausted condition and for weeks lay between life and death. Their rugged constitutions stood them well and all three recovered. During their journey of eight miles over the ice they had to swim 50 times, leads in the ice, and thaw with their clothes on in icy cold water.

The first report of this experience was made to Commissioner Perry, C.M.G., by Inspector Phillips, who stated that Sergeant Deak and Constable Cornelius were highly deserving for their swim in the Arctic sea.

Did you ever notice that the man who shines and the man who rises are not the same?

Alleged Betrayer Of Edith Cavell

Georges Gaston Quien Will Appear Before Sixth Court-Martial of Paris

Paris.—Georges Gaston Quien, charged with having intercourse with the enemy, and alleged betrayer of Edith Cavell, will appear before the sixth court-martial of Paris. The prosecution claims that it will prove beyond obtaining doubt that while free from the English nurse, Quien went to Holland and returned to Brussels as a German agent and betrayed her to the Germans.

The defense will ask for an indefinite postponement until such time the Belgian and other military and civil authority responsible for the death of Miss Cavell are brought before an international tribunal."

Monument In A School Yard

A Figure of Young Infantrymen Done in Fine Granite

Looking out over green fields and meadow is one of the best agricultural districts of Huron County, Ontario, is a figure of a young infantryman in khaki, with rifle at rest, that surmounts a base, also of stone, and altogether it is a highly creditable memorial. Just below the figure on the monument are the names of the young farmers of the district, who gave their lives in the great struggle for freedom in the great war, and also those who enlisted, and those who were conscripted for military service. Prominent the more striking is the fact that it stands in the corner of a school yard and that the number of whose lives were sacrificed in the war were once scholars in the little white brick schoolhouse, the sons and boys of farmers in the neighborhood. They played and studied and worked by turns. Their schoolmates, many of them, are still there, on the farms from which they went, and in which there is a vacant chair, are represented native homes.—London Free Press.

Saskatchewan Wool Cap

With the approach of cold weather, wearing in the total wool cap to be matched through the co-operative branch of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association will exceed that of last year by fifty per cent. When the warehouse was closed for the season on August 9, the total amount received by the branch was 544,120 pounds and there are enough shipments still coming in to bring the total for the season up to 600,000 pounds or over 200,000 pounds more than last year, according to a statement made by W. W. Thompson, director of co-operative organizations.
